Wasted Wealth.

Wasted Wealth,

Victor Hugo, the great French writer, says: Paris throws five millions a year inte the seas. And this without metaphor. How and in what manner? Day and night. With what object? Without any object. With what thought? Without thinking of it. For what return? For nothing. By what means of organ? By means of its intestine. What is its intestine? Its sewer. Five millions is the more moderate of the approximate figures which is the estimate that popular science gives. Science, after long experiment, now knows that the most fertilizing and the most effective of manures is that of man. The Chinese, we must say to our shime, knew it before us. No Chinese peasant. Eckeberg tells us, goes to the city without carrying back, at the ends of his bamboo, two tuckets of what we call fifth.
Thanks to human fertilization, the earth in Damboo, two ouesets of what we call fifth. Thanks to human fertilization, the earli in China is still as young as in the days of Abraham. Chinese wheat yields a hundred and twenty fold.

to the detritus of a expital. A great city is the most powerful of stereoraries. To employ the city to earlied the plain would be a sure success. If our gold is fith, on the other hand, our filth is gold What is done, with the filth, gold? It is swept into the abyss. We fit out convoys of ships at great expense to gather up at the South Pole the droppings of petrels and penguins, and the incadeniable element of we the which we have under our own hand we send to the seas. All the human and animal maner which the world losses, restored to the land instead of being thrown into the water, weuld suffice to nourish the world. Those heaps of garbage at the corners of the stone to the detritus of a capital. A great city is heaps of garbage at the corners of the stone blocks, these tumbrils of mire julting through the streets at night, these horrid scaveng the streets at night, these horrid scavenger's carts, the footid streams of subterranean slime which the pavement hides from you—do you know what all this is? It is the flowering meadow, the green grass—it is the majoram and thyme and sage, it is game, it is cattle, it is the satisfied low of huge oxen at evening, it is the satisfied low of huge oxen at evening it is perlumed hay, it is golden corn, it is bread on your table, it is golden corn, it is bread on your table, it is warm blood in your veins, it is health, it is life. Thus wills that mysterious creation which is transformation on earth and transformation in heaven.

Put that into the great emerble—your not of the plains makes the nourishment of men. You have the power to throw vay this beargain. That will cap the climax of your ignorance. Statistics show that France alone makes a liquidation of a hundred millions.

BLAL ENCHANGE drawn at sight or on the control of the plains and to think me ridiculous into the bargain. That will cap the climax of your ignorance. Statistics show that France alone makes a liquidation of a hundred millions. makes a liquidation of a bundred millions every year into the Atlantic from the mouths of her rivers? Mark this—with that bundred of her rivers. Mark this—with that bundred millions you might pay a quarter of the expenses of the Government. The eleverness of man is such that he prefers to throw this hundred millions into the gutter. It is the very substance of the people which is carried away, here by drops, there in floods, by the wretched vomiting of our sewers into the views and the wienting of our sewers into the wretched voluting of our sewers into the rivers, and the gigantic collection of our rivers into the ocean. Each hiccough of our cloaca costs us a thousand frames. From this spring two results—the land impoverished and the water infected—hunger rising from the furrow and disease from the river. It is notrious, for instance, that at this hour the Thames is poisoning London.

Life on a Palm-Oil River.

During this portion of the voyage I gleaned from the "palm-oil doctor" some idea of "life on a palm-oil river." These palm-oil agents reside ever on board the receiving hulks, from whence they enjoy the lovely view of a broad, muddy river, flowing silently and sluggishly along among slimy mangrove swamps, and an expanse of country, the swamps, and an expanse of country, the never-changing face of which, overhung with yellow mephitic vapor, is perfectly flat. level with the water, and covered with bush, the vegetable deposits from which, decaying and festering in the damp, and sweltering under the influence of a tropical superpit at high the influence of a tropical sun emit at night an intolerable miasma. So deadly is the the influence of a tropical son, court at night an intolerable missian. So deadly is the climate they seldom dare venture ashare, and the only excitement they ever experience at owatch for alligators floating lazily along the stream; to conclute with one another which shall first collect a cargo; to scrutinize the shore through their telescopes, and when a canoe is seen putting off, to specuace whether it contains palm oil, which drops in thus slowly by gallons and puncheous, whether it is bound for his bulk or that of a rival; the anxious hope as it approaches, and the corresponding disappointment when it is seen dodging off to a neighbor's hulk. Or, when socially inclined, the excitement consists in visiting each hulk at night, and, instead of entering by the usual mode, to scramble in at the cabin windows, and puling the occupant from his berth, compel him to produce strong water and make a night of it. Who can wonder that these wretched exiles, wearied with contained and depressed by n. Who can wonder that these wetcher dexiles, wearied with emui and depressed by their solitary existance and the horid climate, should have recourse to artificial stimulants of support their spirits?—European Settlements on the West Coast of Africa.

THE WEST COAST

From the news which we receive from tim to time from the North west coast, it is quit evident that the absence of the men-of-war from that part of the country is productive of similar effects to those experienced on the East Coast. The character of the native tribes of the Pacific coast of the Island has changed but little since the time when they massacred the crew of the ill-fated Tonquin in the early part of the present century They are ready now as then to give vent to their barbarous instincts whenever they fancy they may do so with impunity. It is only the fear of punishment, the dread of the more powerful instruments of destruction possessed by the white man, that keeps them within any thing like reasonable bounds. In order however that this restraining influence may operate with the greatest effect, it is necessary that it should be brought more frequently and prominently before them than has latterly been the case. Like the Indians on the East coast of the Island they must be taught that their outrages upon whitemen shall meet with a punishment swift and sure, and that although our war vessels have unfortunately too seldom paid them a visit they are still on active service and will do their work effectively when they go about it. We cannot however but think that it is a very bad policy to leave the natives to themselves so long. We feel it all the worse now that while their presence is required on the West coast, they have not yet completed the task before them in the neighborhood of the Cowichan country. In the latter neighborhood a number of offenders still remain to be brought to justice. The murderers too of the men on the John Thorndyke and of those at Bentinck Arm, require to be ferreted out might pay a visit to the west. Something should be done quickly. It may occupy a couple of months to complete the work yet requiring to be doue along the mainland and the east coast of this Island, and in the meantime the interest of the coasting trade and the settlements now springing up along the west side of the Island may suffer it some steps are not taken in time to overawe the natives, At present, the unsettled state of things prevents even the and fishing, a matter worth looking after in connection with the possibility of a stoppage of our usual supplies of fars and oil. It is to be hoped, therefore, that steps will be taken as soon as possible to have some of the war vessels sent around to the neighborhood in question to put matters to rights.

and captured. However one would think

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT. It is full time some action were taken, both by the Government and the City Council, to place the Fire Department in a more satisfactory condition than it is at present. It will not do to compel men who are publicspirited enough to freely give their time and services for the protection of our lives and our property from destruction-it will not do, we repeat, to compel them to run about from the Government to the Council, and the Council to the Government, for the wherewithal to pay the expense of keeping the Companies in a state of efficiency. It is a kind of treatment which they do dot deserve, and one to which they should be subjected no longer. In the beginning of the year they asked an appropriation from the Government. It was considered, however, that as the Council had the power, under the Act of Incorporation, to make regulations for the preservation of the City from fire, that they were the proper parties to support the Department, which had for its object the preservation of Victoria property. Accordingly, the Legislature voted only $1,800 to be applied exclusively for some new aparatus. All provision for the current expenses of the Fire Companies was left for the ever, it is to be regretted that the whole matter was not settled-that the Government were not formally authorized to handlover to the Corporation the fire apparatus, whenever the latter were ready to assume the control and management of the department. Had this been done no delay could now occur in finally settling the position the fire department should occupy. The Corporation who profess to be willing to pay at least the current expenses of the various companies, provided the control of the department be handed over to them, could at once be met and closed with upon their own terms. The fire department would then know whom they were to apply to for the necessary funds to pay their expenses, and whom they were to look to as controlling them. It is said the Government are willing to hand over the control of the department to the Corporation, but simply delay the measure for parliamentary sanction. Should the Executive reply to this effort to communication addressed them by the Corporation on the subject, we do not see how the latter can refuse to comply as far as their funds will allow them with the application of the fire department, to pay their expenses. As a matter of convenience, we think it is better that the control of the department should be with the Council, but as a matter of duty we consider both the Council and the Government bound to contribute to their support. In the United States and the Eastern British Provinces, the control and support of fire companies is always a purely municipal matter, as i should be wherever possible.

In this country circumstances have hitherto thrown the management and support of the department into the hands of the Government. We believe the latter would now get rid both of the management and expense. Though upon general principles the right to control the department may seem to be co relative to the duty of supporting the institution, yet we think that in this country there is an exception. Elsewhere the Gov e nment would not feel justified in expending for a merely local purpose the funds re ceived from the country at large. And is a large and populous country, composed of many municipalities, the Government would have no right to donate public moneys for the Victoria Fire Department. But we all know that the people of Victoria contribute nearly the whole of the Colonia fands, and that were the city destroyed by fire, the Government would be as likely to suffer as the Corporation. This being the case, it would appear only fair that although

THE BRITISH COLONIST the Corporation will have to bear the brum of the Fire Department expenses, still the Government should lend them some assist nce, in the shape of an annual grant. One thing is certain, both the Government and Corporation may make up their minds that for the future, from various cause, it will be much more difficult than heretofore to keep the various fire companies together, unless things are placed upon a much more satisfactory footing in the department than

IMPOSING CEREMONY Laying the Foundation Stone of the Hebrew Synagogue

The proceedings in connection with the above event lost none of their interest from the post ponement necessarily occasioned by the heavy fall of rain on Monday. The weather yesterday answered the most ardent hopes of all: the sun shone bright, and the previous showers had conferred some benefit by cooling the atmosphere and laying the dust, which would otherwise have proved disagreeable.

Precisely at 2 p. m. the Band of II. M Topaze was met by the Congregation Emanu-El and Germania Sing Verein oppo site their rooms on Yates street; they proceeded to the Star and Garter Hotel where they were joined by the Hebrew Benevolent French Benevolent, and St. Andrew's Societies, and then marched to the Masonie Hall on Langley street, where they received the members of the Victoria and Vancouver Lolges. The procession then formed two deep in the following order and marched to the spot where the ceremony was to take place on Cormorant street, headed by the Band which played some excellent marches in their usual masterly style.

The names of the officers of both Lodges, in their perfect order of ank, will appear hereafby its peculiar badges—the Masons, in par-ticular, presenting a most imposing appear-ance. We should, however, state that their numbers were streng hencel by the addition of a good many who belonged, as well, to the

A large platform with seats had been provided for the accommodation of the ladies, who attended in great force.

Mr. Malowanski then proceeded to read in the Hebrew Tongue the CXXVII. Psalm, which being concluded, the Germania Sing

Verein, led by Mr. St. Chair, chanted some sacred music in a sweet and pleasing manner. sacred music in a sweet and pleasing manner.

Mr. S. Hoffman, in a few preliminary remarks, stated that he had been chosen by the Congregation Emanu-El to address them on this occasion. We are assembled here on an occasion which will form an era in the history of the Jews of this island: We are here on an occasion that should make every true religious heart threb with joy and satisfaction. We are here to lay the foundation of the first Synagogue in Her Mej stry's dominisms on this side of the Pacific. Should we not rejoice to behold an edifice dedicated to God, in this far Northern clime? Yes; we should rejoice with all our hearts at the erection of either a church, chapel, or temple. Does it, perhaps, matter, with what form or ceremonies we praise our Maker? Are, perchance, the prayers of Catholic or Protestant less acceptable to the Lord than those of the Israelites, or other religious denominations? should spring up a comparatively large city, stud-ded with magnificent edifices, and innabited by a large concourse of intelligent people? Who would not have ridiculed the idea that where, ere now, nought but the hunter's step and wid beasts' roar ever disturbed the wilderness, should, at this carly day, be erected a synangone by the scattered tribes of Israel? With feelings amount-its, almost noney have we heldel the creative.

so one Genne orearen, I am proud to say, that since we first made our appearance, one by one we have each and all striven manfully to uphole that religion which has been handed down to us by our foresthers. orefathers, ends and brethren; In the spectacle beby our foretathers.

Myffriends and brethren: In the spectacle before us, he w many endearing recollections do not crowd themselves upon our memory. It will remind some of us of the land that gave us birth. Barly days, when side by side, with good, kind, pious old parents, we walked hand in hand to our temples, there to pay homage to our maker. It will remind us of those happy days when cares and troubles were unknown to our unsophisticated mind. When with gladdened hearts we skipped playfully to our Sabbath schools, there to receive the wholesome and well-meant doctrines of our venerable teachers. Though our past life may have been a very rugged one—though pangs and dismay may have shot through our hearts—though dismal clouds may often have obscured the rays of our happiness, circumstances may have bid us thus to leave relatives, friends, and home behind us to wander forth to a strange land, and there to gain the wherewithal of life; yet, as I behold this scene before me, hope shines more serenely bright, and soft eyed Mercy sheds a glistening tear—a tear of joy and love.

My friends and brethers. These may not be there to gain the wherewithal of life; yet, as I belof I this scene before me, hope shines more serrenely bright, and soft eyed Mercy sheds a glistening tear—a tear of joy and love.

My friends and brethren: These may not be the only thoughts that occupy our attention this day. When we look back into the history of our nation we find there ample room for reflection. Will, however, refrain from entering into details, inasmuch as I car to tire your patience. I need, however, but mention, that from the time of our deliverance form slavery in Egypt, the Jews have successively, under the iron rod of the Romans, Greeks—in fact all other formabable nations, been trampled upon and correct. Through the dark ages, how poignant and deep their sorrows! A poor, forsaken, scattered aid persecuted race. Even in modern ages, to time has not long passed by when their rights were denied to them, and they had to submit meekly to the scorns, scoff and entimelies of their fellow creatures. But how different is it now! The rays of justice and rue feelings of humanity have at last entered into the benighted and bigoted souls of our persecutors. Our chains are thrown asile—our rights restored—and in almost every country we enjoy with our fellow citizens the same rights, the same blessings, and the same laws. Religious liberty—the decirine inculcated by the Almighty Himself—is spreading its benigh influence over every land on the face of the globe, and the Jews of to-day, I am proud to say, stand second to no other sect.

My friends: I did not intend occupying much of your time, B. fore I conclude there is, however, one essential thing which I would most particularly impress upon the minds of my fellow-members; it is the good doctrine of union and harmony. He peace and harmony be your guiding star, let it be the motto inseribed in the heart of every members of this organization, and Gone will shower His blessinzs upon you. King David with all his glory, what All his greatness and might, was forbidden, by prophecy, to build a temple, be that he may support us in our undertakings—that he may infuse a feeling of peace and harmony in the hearts of my brethren, and that this temple may become a bright gem among the glorious con-stellation of churches in this our adopted country.

We regret we have not space to give the emainder of the speeches in full .- [REP.] Mr. J. P. Davies followed and spoke with fervency and fluency. He concluded his re-marks by pointing out the good objects of the various societies and thanking them for their attendance there. In addressing himself to the fraternity of Masons, he observed that it was now 2675 years since the Temple of Solomon was built and the present was the first instance since then of the ancient order of Masons or any other fraternity taking part in laying the foundation stone of a devisible children.

Dr. Boscowitz gave a most spirited and eloquent address in the German language. When the various specches were ended
